My name is Coley.

I love working with people, reading, and traveling. My favorite word is sassy. I spent half my life in Virginia and half in Las Vegas. I miss the South and its plethora of sweet tea. I moved to Portland, OR in January and spend my time being goofier and preppier than the local hipster population.

You can find me blasting 90s music and playing badminton on the front lawn with my roommates. I spend my days working remotely, helping people, for Airbnb. I have an affinity for start-ups, technology, and excellent service. I enjoy developing black and white photos in the darkroom. One time, I saved a baby shark.
